Wendy Williams, author of Cape Wind: Money, Celebrity, Class, Politics and the Battle for America's Energy Future (with Robert Whitcomb of the Providence Journal) and of the just-released Kraken: The Curious, Exciting, and Slightly Disturbing Science of Squid, will talk about wind power, the Cape Wind project, and the very weird group of animals called cephalopods -- smart octopuses, giant squids and artistic cuttlefishes.

The lake at West Thompson Dam

April 16th/rain date April 17th Quinebaug River CT.

Meet at 11:00 for an 11:30 shuttle. Trip coordinator Henry D. 401-567-0313. henry@twincitysupply.com
Trip is suitable for paddlers with moving water experience. Wetsuit or Drysuit required. Bring a lunch.

If you paddle down from the Fabyan Dam it is a nice trip that requires some navigating around downed trees and there are a few riffles along the way.

Trip starting at the Fabyan Dam: Coordinates are as follows: Fabyan Dam Access N 42° 00.610 W 071° 56.494

This designated Water Trail along the Quinebaug River is a flat water course with some quick water sections, with no portages, approximately 5 miles in length. This section of the Quinebaug River flows from the Fabyan Dam down to West Thompson Lake. The Quinebaug River Water Trail provides excellent examples of a riverine environment and the geological developments in the valley. As you embark down the river, note the differences in the riverbanks which change from steep and forested to flat agricultural fields. American sycamore trees, black willow, and silver maples abound along the banks.

Look and listen for the many wildlife inhabitants including turtles, great blue herons, green herons, geese, ducks, muskrats, beavers, red foxes, deer, turkeys, hawks, belted kingfishers, and various song birds. Bald eagles have also been sited, usually in late winter and early spring. When you look closely along the edge of the river in the summer, you may see some remains of fresh water mussels or piles of fish scales and bones. This is a sure sign of otter.

Directions: The put in is on Fabyan Woodstock Road. This runs south from Route 131 between North Grosvenordale, CT (intersection of Rts. 131 and 12) and Quinebaug, CT (intersection of Rts. 131 and 97). Follow Fabyan Woodstock Road for about 1/2 mile. There is parking on both sides of street.

We will cross Nippenicket Lake and follow the Town River to the take out at the War Memorial Park, formally a site of an old grist mill complete with ruins.

Description: A lazy, meandering river that starts out wide and increasingly narrows. Enjoy the views from the river of old farmland, meadows, wildlife and old stone bridges.

Upper Wood River

The beginning of the river may be narrow, shallow and rocky but soon opens up. There is one portage at Barberville Dam and a short set of rapids after the portage.

" There is a large gravel parking lot around an old Quonset hut and good access to the west (river right) bank of the river for launching hand-carried boats. Paddling downstream from this site you are heading into the heart of the Arcadia Management Area on a river that is one of the natural treasures of Rhode Island as well as one of Rhode Island's finest trout streams. The river is narrow and winding and in low water can be a bit scratchy. The shoreline of the river is wooded and houses and roads are nowhere to be seen. We will portage 4 miles downstream at the Barberville Dam, where there is a handicapped accessible landing on the right side of the river. After the portage around the dam, there is another 3 miles of paddling to Wyoming Pond." (info gathered from the RI Blueways website
Meet at the put-in.

"The Great Swamp, located in the southern part of Rhode Island, provides perhaps the most intriguing canoe trip in the state. The trip is an excursion into hidden jungle-like retreats that cannot be reached any other way. Here, you will float into a vast state-owned management area on one river, paddle across a shallow but wide pond, and then finish your trip on another river that snakes its way through dense vine-draped vegetation. There will be no doubt in your mind why this area is called Great Swamp." (excerpt from Gorp)

Meet at Taylors Landing

Directions. From Rt. 1 South or North take Rt. 138 heading WEST. Follow this to the intersection with Rt. 110. Right after this intersection on your LEFT is the put in. Watch for the sign. This can also be reached from Rt. 95 North or South. Take the exit for Rt. 138 and follow it EAST.

H.L. ARNOLD FIRE & SAFETY COMPLEX
208 RICHMOND TOWNHOUSE ROAD (ROUTE 112)
RICHMOND, RI

Representatives of the Wood-Pawcatuck Watershed Association (WPWA) and other partner agencies, and the Rhode Island Department of Environmental Management (RIDEM) staff will be on hand to provide information on the current status of this project to restore fish passage on the Pawcatuck River at the Kenyon Mill Dam adjacent to Kenyon Industries. Environmental, cultural and historic aspects of the project site being studied and addressed by alternatives under consideration will be discussed at this meeting.

Project partners including the WPWA, the Town of Richmond, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Rhode Island Coastal Resources Management Council, the RIDEM Division of Fish and Wildlife have provided technical and/or funding assistance. American Reinvestment and Recovery Act (ARRA) economic stimulus funding has been approved for the project through NOAA's Restoration Center.

Slides presented at this meeting will be posted on the WPWA website. (www.wpwa.org).

RICKA is looking for worthy or charitable causes to donate funds to which promote recreational boating

The Rhode Island Canoe and Kayak Association is a recreational organization which operates as a Not for Profit group. On occasion the Treasury runs into small surpluses which we do not intend to keep as earnings so we intend to give some away.

We are asking the membership if they are aware of any other unrecognized needy groups that go largely overlooked and promote recreational boating or conservation of our natural resources We have heard of Save the Bay, Boy Scouts of America and the Nature Conservancy.

If you feel strongly about one particular cause or know about a local interest group, please contact me Bill Luther, Prijon@juno.com 508-761-7961. I am a one-man committee and would welcome anyone wanting to join me.

We will evaluate in April and make donations recommendations at the Board meeting in May.
